Like father, like son! The old axiom was exemplified yesterday when Don Briggs pleaded guilty to second degree robbery and went to San Quentin to join his father who was committed to prison last year on the same charge.

Prince Carol of Rumania will publish a book on his romances tending to justify his escapades it was announced yesterday.

Medical science is on the brink of discovering a cure for cancer, Dr. William Mayo, world famed surgeon, announced yesterday.

George McLean Curtis, Jr., of Washington, D. C., was found hanging from a beam in the cellar of his home yesterday. Authorities stated they believed the boy had been attempting a Houdini trick and had become entangled in the rope.

When the automobile of Dan Casey, Modesto rancher, crashed into another car, a bolt from his machine shot like a bullet into his skull.

J. Kupper Bier, 107, is a living refutation of the theory that smoking injures a man (or woman). He smokes a long black cigar, and "showed 'em how" at a wedding anniversary attended by 100 descendants.

Whether you wish to do your own painting or desire to employ the service of experts, consult those you will find listed in the Buyers' List. It is pleasing to have it done carefully and just as you ordered.

Trull, general agent, and work will proceed as rapidly as possible. The railroad is placing itself in a position to take care of the vast increase in freight tonnage that is expected.

An ordinance was then adopted creating the office of electrical inspector, and on the recommendation of City Manager J. A. McVittie, Edward McLaughlin was appointed to the position at a salary of $200 per month.

McLaughlin was the successful applicant of twelve, who took the preliminary examination last month. Those making high averages were given an oral examination and their past qualifications were investigated.

Plans and specifications for the work were presented by Councilman V. A. Fenner, and on his motion, they were adopted.

The plans provide for a play ground in the center of the plot, also hand ball courts, lawns, and an abundance of shrubbery.

It is estimated the work of improving the park will cost about $5,000.

Macdonald Avenue Lighting Discussed By Merchants

Macdonald Avenue is to be more brightly illuminated, if plans discussed by the Richmond Merchants association, members of the City Council Pacific Gas and Electric officials, and members of other interested organizations at a meeting held at the Hotel Carquinez Monday noon are put into effect.

L. Garfinkle, president of the merchants' association, assured the gathering that the street lighting question was of major interest, and that he wanted the advice and help of the rest of the city.

The steps taken by the city in the installing of the present lighting system were traced by George Rooker, manager of the P. G. & E. City Manager J. A. McVittie followed with the statement that the city had gone as far as it could.

BOY SCOUTS TO HAVE WEEK-END CAMP IN PARK

The presence of about fifty boy scouts, and their scoutmaster, Claude E. Clark, at the meeting of the council last evening and the speech made by Henry Peterson, one of the scouts, resulted in the council providing a week-end camp in Alvarado park for the boys.

NEEDS TOLD
Peterson made a speech that almost any grown-up could well feel proud of. He stated one of the necessities of the scouts was a plot of ground for a week-end camp, and some of the activities of the organization called for such a spot. The speaker stated that at a recent conference in Oakland many plans for activities were discussed, but none of them could be carried out at the present time on account of the ground.

LAND SET ASIDE
Councilman Elmer Martin made the motion, which was unanimously adopted for a piece of the park to be set aside under the direction of the city manager for the activities of the boys.

The boys stated that in the northwest corner of the park was about two and a half acres of land, partly level, and wooded, which would be ideal for their purposes.

When the motion granting the boys was adopted, under the direction of their leader, the boys gave their yell in honor of the council.

Mayor Chandler thanked the boys for their response, and stated the council was at all times willing to do whatever was possible for their welfare.

Azevedo Draws Sentence Of 3 Months In Jail

Contempt of court and the sale of liquor in violation of a court injunction, will cost John Azevedo, 60, proprietor of the San Pablo Hotel, and father of eight, three months in the county jail. Sentence was passed today by Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado's court.

Convicted last week of the illegal possession of liquor, involving the same facts as set forth in contempt proceedings instituted by District Attorney A. B. Tinning, Azevedo is facing an additional term of 600 days in the county jail if a fine of $500 imposed by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass is not satisfied.

After testimony of under cover agents of the sale of liquor had been presented to the court Azevedo admitted his guilt on the contempt charge. The court did not offer an alternative of a fine.

With Azevedo's arrest the district attorney claimed that operations had not only secured evidence of liquor sales, but also of marijuana from the hotel, which was abated as a nuisance a year ago and later permitted to be opened under bond.

Holding their first annual meeting in the offices of the temporary location on Macdonald avenue near Twelfth street, stockholders of the new Richmond Commercial and Savings bank yesterday re-elected George Barnett president of the institution for the coming year.

The same officers and board of directors, chosen a few months ago when the bank was organized were also re-elected for the new term. They are: Dr. E. R. Gulnan, vice-president and John Rhin, cashier and directors: O. R. Ludwig, Anton Nelson, James F. Hoey, Dr. E. R. Gulnan and George Barnett.

Pleasure in the growth of the institution during the few months of its existence was expressed at the meeting and the announcement made that work on constructing the new permanent headquarters would be started within the next few weeks.

Bids on the contracts for the work were opened in the office of the architect, Henry Minton, nearly two weeks ago and the bids were taken under advisement. Contracts are expected to be awarded shortly after which construction on the new $50,000 bank building will be started.

EXTENSION OF HARBOR DENIED

So that the citizens of Richmond could be correctly informed regarding an erroneous impression concerning a joint meeting of the council and the Chamber of Commerce, Councilman E. A. Martin last evening brought the matter to the attention of the council.

Some people were of the opinion, the speaker stated, that the council was going to have the harbor extended to Cutting boulevard, and pay the cost of it, and that a portion of the recent harbor bond issue money was to be used for the purpose.

"There has been no move of such a nature contemplated by the city, and if this work is done in the future, it is my opinion that the expenses of it should be borne by the property owners, who would be directly benefited and whose land would be increased about ten-fold."

CHURCH ELDER CONFESSES TO SLAYING GIRL

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 16.—Adolphus Hotelling, a carpenter and father of five children, confessed late today to the murder of Dorothy Schneider, the police announce.

Hotelling was caught here by deputy sheriffs after his movements on the day of the crime pointed to his guilt.

A bloody handkerchief was found in the possession of the prisoner. It is believed that he used the handkerchief after he had brutally hacked the body of the kindergarten pupil to bits.

Hotelling attempted to kill himself after he made his confession. In his cell, he tried to cut his jugular vein with a rusty nail.

According to reports, Hotelling has lived at Oronoco for twelve years, and has never before been in trouble. His children and middle-aged wife were stunned when they learned of his alleged admissions.

A heavy guard was thrown about the Flint jail to prevent violence. A crowd gathered about the prison after the news of the confession became known and threats of lynching were made.

In the confession, the prisoner told how he had painted the automobile black after he had abducted the little girl.

Archie Bacon, a farmer who helped the murderer extricate his machine from the mud near Shallow Brent Creek where the girl's body was discovered identified Hotelling.

Local Cleaning Shop Protested

Fire Chief W. P. Cooper complained to the council last evening about the condition of the Mayor's Cleaning and Dyeing establishment on Macdonald avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth street.

Cooper stated it was one of the worst fire traps in the city, and on his insistence the owner had closed it down for a week, but now had defied him, and had opened it up again. Cooper said that other concerns had complied with the fire laws, and thought no exception should be made in this case.

Mayor Chandler informed the chief the matter had been discussed in committee meeting, and the city manager would give him his instructions.

It is understood the question is to be referred to the state fire marshal for his decision.

A FINANCIAL GOOD DEED

One individual who certainly started the new year well is Reuben H. Donnelly of Chicago. Back in 1905 the brokerage firm of which he was a member failed. The courts exonerated him of all responsibility at the time, but he determined nevertheless to assume full moral and financial obligation to the injured creditors.

Now, after 22 years, he has paid back between $600,000 and $700,000, representing payment of 100 cents on the dollar and interest.

It was a pretty big job to locate all the creditors or their heirs, but it has been done. The last check was put in the mail by New Year's Day. That, said Mr. Donnelly, was pure coincidence, not sentiment. The whole procedure he regards as a "business transaction."

Honor and graciousness are found often enough in this occasionally sordid world to justify optimism and faith in the fundamental goodness and soundness of humanity.

Remember the good old days when the fellow who played penny ante and smoked cigarettes was regarded as something of a devil?

Old Man Noah would have had less trouble recovering from his flood if he had had Secretary Hoover along.

Happy is the nation that can afford one grand, universal stomach-ache every November and another only a month later.

We gather, from the way coal men talk, that it is this country's supreme misfortune to have such vast and widely distributed coal deposits.

An internationalist is a fellow who thinks Uncle Sam ought to make a lamb out of himself just because Europe likes mutton.

It is said that taking pictures of the President and Lindy were shown at the White House the other evening. It's our guess that neither one of them talked too much, even in the pictures.

Speaking of daylight saving, all of that daylight we saved in June and July doesn't seem to do us any good now that we really need it.

Who remembers the good old days when you could tell a republican from a democrat by the way they talked about the tariff?

Lindbergh proves, along with other things, that the most effective national defense is just plain, human good-will which does not cost us a cent.

WISE CRACKS from the BIG TOWN by Walter Winchell

FABLE

He was saturated with alcohol and he lolled on the Coney Island sands pouting because his luck with girls had been poor. It appears that he wanted to meet a certain Nordic of the neighborhood, but she ignored him. All the dialectician beauties liked him however. So there he sat on the sands highly carbonated, looking at the ocean and paraphrasing Joyce Kilmer's poem like this: "Cohens are made by fools like me, but only God can make a sea."

QUITESO

One of the Broadway banks which keeps a confidential system on its depositors and knows how its clients' money is earned and spent observes that 80 per cent of the Broadwayites live on the other 20.

GAG

Lois Long credits Rube Goldberg with the one about the colored girl who was disconcerted. A sympathetic person asked her if she had a mother. "Mah mammy died when I was small," she sadly answered, "and mah pappy was lynched. Ah have a sister, but she's a bad woman." When she was asked if she had no brothers she brightened. "Oh yass, ah've a brother in de Ohio University!" she ejaculated proudly. "That's fine," responded the questioner, "What course is he taking?"

"He ain't takin' no courses." "No courses?" "No, they got him in alcohol!" beamed the dork; he was born with two tails!"

OBSERVATION

According to a page advertisement in a last week's theatrical journal, a Broadway music publishing company features a song titled: "Melancholy Baby" which is re-lyricized by a certain "Melancholy Baby" who is an old favorite. The song was written by George A. Norton and Ernie Burnett sixteen years ago, and was made famous by Tommy Lyman, the ace of the "torch" lullabiers. Yet the music firm's ad states: "This is the quickest hit and greatest song we have ever published. An overnight sensation!"

Overnight is correct. Overnight one night in 1911.

Sparkle On A Rainy Day To Capture New Position

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

Don't get that rainy day look. Your beauty must stand the test of a rainy day as easily as it can stand fair weather.

This isn't as silly as it may sound at first. For on rainy days the energy is likely to lag. We get out the old clothes and don the raincoat and umbrellas and galoshes.

"It's a rainy day—it doesn't matter how I look!"

How many times have you offered up this excuse on the altar of forgotten beauty? Remember the best time to make a good impression is on a rainy day. Everybody appreciates the sparkle and vitality of beauty when nature is neglected of her sunshine and color.

The law of contrasts again starts functioning. The same law that inevitably rules the choice of our friends so often. That is why Mary, who is a blonde, will select Harriet, who is a brunette, for her special girl friend. They unconsciously act as foils for each other's beauty.

Have you ever heard the old advice, "Never look for a job on a rainy day—the boss will be in a bad temper." Disregard this.

I've seen it happen time and time again that the girl who pays special attention to her personal appearance and her costume on a rainy day and presents a vital, happy beauty will get the job easier on a rainy day, because her smile will be such a contrast the ugliness of the weather, her attributes are actually magnified in the eyes of an employer.

A girl who can avoid the drab, sad look of the rainy day will find she is two leagues and a long run ahead of the rest of the girls. A jolly smile on a rainy day is worth a grin from ear to ear when the sun is shining.

The bright colored slickers with umbrella to match, are a step in the right direction. They don't cost any more than the ugly tan and gray and dark blue ones of years past, but they certainly are a jolly sight for tired eyes when Jupiter Pluvius decides to weep.

What Do You Know?

1. What makes Lake Superior unique?
2. What actress, popular in her day, played in Clyde Fitch's "The Girl With the Green Eyes"?
3. What is a baker's dozen?
4. What is the Talmud?
5. Who was Talleyrand?
6. On the map of the United States (a) Where does the West begin and (b) Who wrote the book of poems "Out Where the West Begins"?
7. Who was the father of Sir Galahad?
8. What is a pot pourri?

The straw hat has already made its appearance in fashionable circles. A pretty chapeau combines bengaline with novelty straw braid in draped turban effect. A marcesite pin at the front serves as trimming.

Some of the newest umbrellas feature plain handles and novelty coverings. All-over patterned silks, frequently in modernistic treatments, are featured.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. When a formal dinner is served should the first course be placed on the table before the guests are invited in?

A. The first course, if cold, may be on the table; if hot, it is served after the guests are in their seats.

Q. Should all the dishes be removed from the table before the dessert course is served?

A. Everything except the glass, sea and silver.

Q. In what order should guests at a dinner be seated?

A. The guest of honor, if a woman, is seated at the right of the host; if a man, at the right of the hostess. In seating the remaining guests there are no rules to be followed other than to alternate the sexes if possible, and try to seat together those most likely to prove congenial.

Q. When one is asked at the last moment to serve as a stop-gap at a more or less formal bridge party, may he refuse without giving an excuse?

A. A valid excuse should be given. While an invitation of this kind need not be accepted, it is a polite people, who are at liberty, invariable do their best to give assistance in a hostess's hour of need.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

There is nothing that undermines the peace and happiness of a home more quickly than distrust and nothing that can creep in so quietly and grow to hideous proportions so rapidly!

You remember when you were a child playing a game of three wishes when you thought of the three things you wanted most in the world? How simple it was then to enumerate—a fine house, a pony a dollhouse and so on, convinced that if the wishes were granted your happiness would be complete.

I think that if I were a kind grantor of wishes the first thing that I would bestow on young married people would be trustful hearts. An absolute trust in each other passes all else in making for happiness.

Trifles sometimes cause heartaches. When the trifles multiply into a series of misunderstandings and petty lies are told to cover up the one at fault, and often, mind you to spare the other's peace and contentment and distrust gets a firm grip.

Of course, there are those who misplace their trust, but there are many many who needlessly make their own lives and the lives of those around them miserable by doubting. I'm of the humble opinion that the more one trusts a man the more that man is likely to live up to the trust put in him. True happiness can never exist where there is doubt.

Dear Patricia Lee:

My husband works in an office. I know he meets lots of girls every day, but I never worried about it until one night he came in getting home, and he told me he was delayed by work. Later he told me that he couldn't tell me a lie and that he had taken a girl in the office to supper because she had been doing extra work for him and was late. You see he only told me half the truth.

He said that he would never do such a thing again and that he was ashamed to have told me a lie, but I feel that now I'll always think he is doing something he should not be doing when he is late in getting home. I worry about it a lot. What will I do?

I hate to ask him right out where he has been, and he always says that he has been working, or that he was talking to some friends but still I worry.

JANETTE T.

Ston worrying first. Next put it out of your mind that your husband is doing anything wrong and believe him when he tells you where he has been. The fact that he told you of the first of his offense would seem that he wants to be on the level with you and really was there any harm in his being nice to a girl that has been nice to him? Get you keep doubting for him? If you keep doubting what's the use for who thinks I do these things, so why not?

Dear Patricia Lee:

I have a girl friend that I like very much. I am not sure, but I think sometimes I would like to marry her. But she insists on telling me everything that she has ever done and I don't want to know about it. I am sure that she is a good girl now and am willing to believe in her, but she keeps apologizing for what she has done.

BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. "BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

MYNOPSIS
Myra Martin, secretary to Leonard Gilbert, a divorce lawyer to whom she is engaged, discovers that her younger sister, Helene, has become infatuated with Huntley Sheldon, a wealthy Don Juan whose wife, Nita, is making a fourth attempt to divorce him. Myra disguises herself and goes to Sheldon's hunting lodge to frighten him into giving up Helene. Sheldon, recognizing Myra, pretends a heart attack and forces her to remain with him all night. Nita arrives next morning, but Myra escapes without being identified. Then she finds that Helene has eloped with Ralph Naylor. Myra, believing herself safely out of trouble, receives a scolding visit from Sheldon.

"You've got to leave immediately!" she almost cried. "Please! Hurry!" she pleaded.

At that moment the bell rang. Myra jumped nervously. She ran towards Sheldon.

"There, that's Mr. Gilbert now," she lowered her voice. "Quick! You can leave by that rear door. Go right through the bedroom. It leads out into another hallway. He can't see you. Hurry! Hurry!" She was pushing Sheldon, almost dragging him towards the exit.

Sheldon, himself, was not loathe to go. He wasn't particularly anxious to get himself into any mix-ups with his lawyer. Gilbert had always been a good friend of his, and had got him out of innumerable scrapes. It would be embarrassing for everyone concerned. He picked up his hat from the table and bowed, quite ironically, even as Myra pushed him on.

The bell rang again, this time more insistently. Myra pushed Sheldon through the bedroom, pointed silently to the exit where he might escape; shut the bedroom door behind her and opened the living room door.

"Helene!" For the third time that day Myra stared in surprise at a visitor.

"Myra! Darling! I'm so glad to see you!" Helene threw her arms around Myra's neck and jumped up and down, laughing, crying, gurgling happily. "Come on in. Ralph," she called. "We're forgiven."

"Where is Ralph?" Myra asked. Her arms still entwined about her sister.

"Out there," Helene pointed to the hallway.

They both went to the door to find Ralph struggling with bags and luggage, his face very red, and his hair rumpled. He looked up at Myra a little sheepishly, like a schoolboy caught in some mischief.

"It's all right, Ralph," Myra went to him and kissed him. "I'm so glad to have you two back. I don't know what to do. Here, let me help you with those bags." She picked up Helene's traveling satchel and brought it into the living room. "You're going to stay here tonight, aren't you? Or as long as you please. I've missed you so much, Helene." She kissed her sister again and again. "And Sunday night was simply awful. The house was as still as a tomb. But—Oh, Ralph, put those things back in Helene's room, and then come on in. And now tell me all about it."

Myra settled herself comfortably and watched Helene taking off her hat and coat, in that familiar, hurried way of hers. It seemed so long since she had seen her. Strange, all these events of the past three days seemed to last for ages and ages. Time hadn't any of its proper form anymore.

"Of course you got my note," Helene was trying to talk and get settled and look about her and do everything at once.

"Yes, under a heap of things on the dressing table," Myra laughed. "If I hadn't known all your little tricks I mightn't have found it at all. But I knew that if you had left a message, it would be where I couldn't find it, so I rooted, so to speak."

"Well, we've simply had the most gorgeous time you can ever imagine," Helene went on blabbering. "But did you hear how I made my famous escape—you old darling—to think you could ever put anything over on me."

A slight frown clouded Myra's face. The mention of this evening brought back a cloud of memories that she felt she never wanted to think of again. "Yes," she smiled. "I heard all about it from the girl at the desk. She told me all that she knew. Myra was still a bit puzzled. She didn't know how much of the story Helene might have told to Ralph, and she could hear him moving about in the bedroom."

"Well, that's my story, Myra," Helene said very pointedly, "and I intend to stick to it."

"I understand," Myra nodded towards the bedroom. "You haven't said anything about the other episode."

"Certainly not," Helene exclaimed indignantly. "Do you think I want to start a row on my honeymoon?"

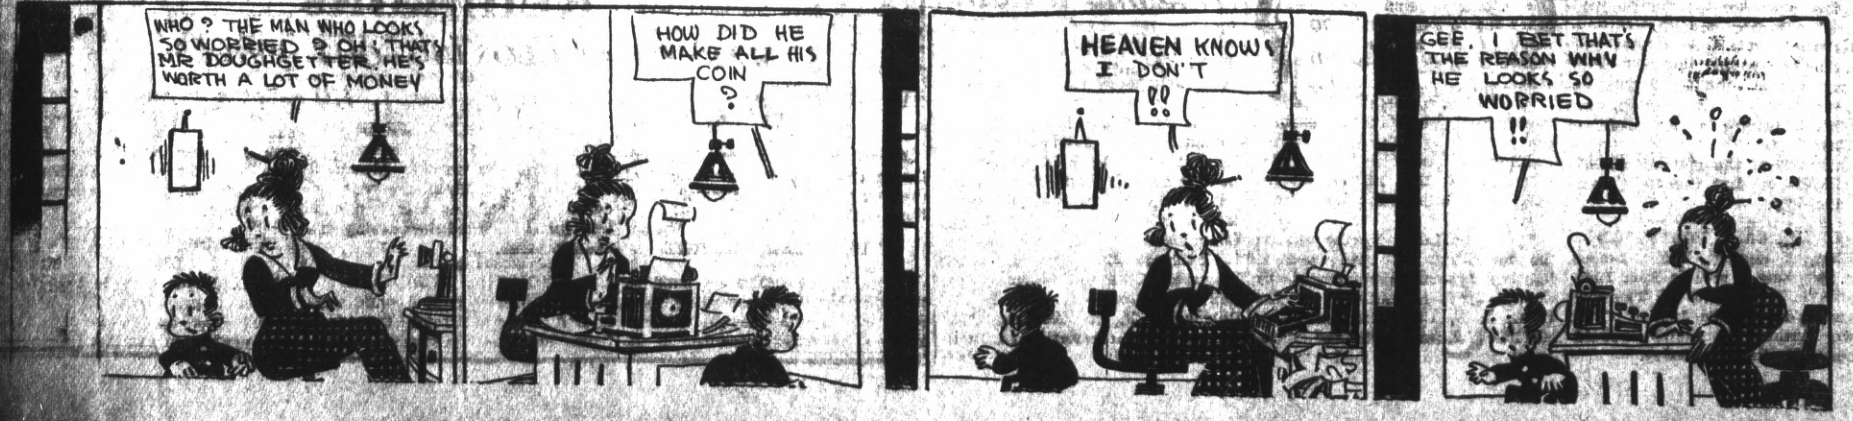

"Well, Helene," Myra laughed now, "that's the second time in your life that you have shown that you have a great deal of sense."

"And what was the first time?" Helene giggled teasingly.

"When you married Ralph." "What's that I hear—my name being taken in vain?" Ralph appeared, much less red of face, and much less disheveled.

"Myra just said that for the first time in my life I have shown that I have any sense, and that, my darling, was in marrying you!" Helene threw her arms rapturously about her husband's neck. "Bless you, my children," Myra mocked.

Members of the newly formed Honor Society were entertained at a delightful dinner given last night at the First Presbyterian manse by the Rev. and Mrs. Earl W. Haneys. It was necessary that those striving for the honor score 100 points attend for twelve Sundays during the months of October, November and December. The requirements were attendance at Sunday school, lesson preparation, attendance at church and Christian Endeavor.

The number making the requisite points was reported as being above the average made in the public schools especially taking into consideration the many requirements.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the host and hostess were: Harriet Berry, Florence Christopher, Doris Miller, Mary MacLachlan, Dolly Edmund, Kenneth Alexander, Peter Pedrotti, Theodore Capen, Martin Crabb, Melton Crabb, Roderick McLennan, and Gordon Lemon and in addition, William Tucker and Theodore Bergen, officers in the intermediate department.

LIFE OF RILEY IS FEATURE AT THE RICHMOND

"The Life of Riley," a First National Pictures feature comedy that heads the entertainment bill at the Richmond Theatre today, brings the funnier and bigger laugh makers to the local screen in the persons of George Sidney and Charlie Murray.

Each of the famous stage and film comedians is more brilliant and sparkling and ludicrous for the presence of the other in "The Life of Riley." They play Chief of Police and Fire Chief respectively of a rustic village.

Myrtle Stedman takes the role of a village widow for whose hand the comedians wage war, and Sam Hardy is the villain who tries to take her from them. This four-cornered love affair is a comedy scream from beginning to end, but sweetly wistful and pleasant junior romance goes with it.

June Marlowe and Stephen Carr enact this love story, and Ed. wards Davis appears in an effective role. The film was produced for First National by E. M. Asher and directed by William Beaudine. In addition to natural comedy facilities afforded by rustic atmosphere, a huge circus carnival, a Fourth of July gala event and a fire add excitement and color.

Other film features include "The Last Word," a roasting comedy; "Topics of the Day;" and "Aesop's Fables."

It's the money you spend wisely that counts

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it, but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here... a little better workmanship there... in this thing slightly more durability... that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

country jail. A mob of several thousand men had formed outside. There was considerable confusion among those associated in the compact mass as to whether the guilty slayer had been apprehended.

Members of the state police force circulated through the throng assuring every one that the man hunted had not been found. This crowd growing more threatening every minute watched with unknown eyes the motorcade of autos that rushed away from the rear entrance of the jail.

"I don't know why I did it—why I killed her—why I treated her so," Hoising told the officials here just before impromptu dash to Detroit was begun. "I was driving down the road or which she was walking. My first thought was that I would give her a life. I like children; I have five of my own."

"Well, I got her into my car. So help me God, all I wanted was to take her home. But some devil in me took charge of my mind. Instead of driving her to her house as I had intended, I turned back and took her along the Stanley road, towards the cross-roads into which we eventually turned."

"I don't know what I was thinking about. The demon that had my mind became particularly active when Dorothy, 17, righted, told me she would tell her parents that I had not taken her home as I had promised."

"The lips of the man trembled and his fingers twitched as he hesitated and listened to the rumbling, incoherent voices of the crowd below."

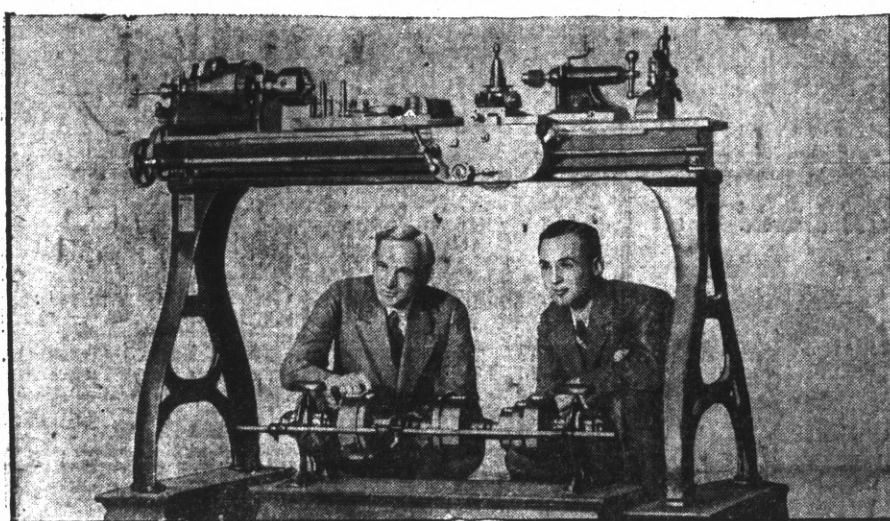

"Am I going to be kept here or—"

Lincoln P. T. A. Lay Plans For Ensuing Year

Plans for an active program for the ensuing term were outlined at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher council held yesterday afternoon at the Lincoln school. Encouraging reports were given by the different chairmen of the sixteenth district concerning the work done during the past year.

Further plans for the luncheon and program to be given by the Parent-Teacher association at Hotel Carquinez on January 26 were also discussed. Mrs. Inez Thompson will erect a one-story, two-room addition on the north side of Ohio avenue between Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, at a cost of $500, according to a building permit issued by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley yesterday. The work will be done by the owner.

Sheer Velvet Will Continue Popular

Sheer or transparent velvet continues to be popular. Vionnet has the credit for launching this fashion, beginning with velvet evening gowns, sheer as cobwebs. The brides of America have adopted this fashion with enthusiasm. Debutantes dance in it. It goes to afternoon card parties and to luncheons. Big triple strings of pink pearls are considered more fashionable than single strands. Advance spring styles are prophesied by the fashions for South.

January there; March here. Florida fashions. Gowns which belong to the palms will be the accepted fashion over the continent in the early spring. They can be built of satin, crepe de chine, fine wool lin, seersucker or supple English tweeds. They tilt outward at the sides in godlet or flounce; they show the correct depth of the V neckline; they give the tight sleeves a chance to escape into fullness below the elbows. Their short length proves America will wear its skirts short.

Harbor Dredging Plans Adopted

Plans for dredging a part of the harbor between the channel line and the pierhead and bulkhead line on the inner harbor were presented to the council last evening and adopted.

Bids for the work will be received by the council next Monday night, and 3 it is estimated the work will cost approximately $77,000.

Money for this work was included in the recent harbor bond issue and is done so that there will be plenty of depth of water when the city and Parr construct the new facilities on the inner harbor.

New Laundry May Be Located Here

S. Toyoki asked permission of the council last evening to erect a steam laundry plant on the east side of Fifteenth street, between Macdonald and Nevin.

The petitioner stated he understood the property was now classified as commercial, but a laundry was rated as light industry, and he asked that the property be re-zoned.

The planning commission will consider the request during the week.

PETITION FOR STREET LIGHTS WINNING FAVOR

Plans for the erection of additional lights for the city of Richmond along the main streets are under way according to V. G. Blake of the V. G. Electric company, who is circulating a petition for the district that is interested in the proposition.

The plans include the purchase and installation of electric lights at a cost of approximately $150,000, from the Marquette company of Los Angeles.

Streets covered in the plan proposed for the new lights are Macdonald from twenty-third to San Pablo. Twenty-third street from the city limits to Fallon avenue; Barrett avenue from twenty-third street to San Pablo and Tenth street from the Santa Fe tracks to Lucas avenue.

Approval of many owners in the district have been secured and an effort is being made to secure the approval of outside property owners. To push the plan along, pictures will be made of the district as it will appear when finished and circulated to all interested property holders. Mr. Blake states that the Pacific Gas and Electric is cooperating in the work and that the plan is progressing rapidly.

Hosiery Now Is Major Part Of Milady's Attire

In this present silk-stocking, knee-dress age, hosiery has become a major wardrobe item, both from the style and from the expense viewpoint, points out an article in the January issue of the Delineator.

"The washing of hosiery," advises this article, "should be done with even more regularity and care than is given to silk underwear. It takes very little time and energy to wash your stockings in the evening when they are removed. Draw a little very hot water in the basin, add a teaspoon of soap flakes, and then add cold water, whisking the soap to a suds as you cool it to the temperature of your hands. If feet of stockings are very dirty or stained, allow them to soak for a few minutes to avoid the necessity of hard rubbing. Rinse very thoroughly in water which barely feels warm to your hand, and squeeze this water out, but do not wring or twist hard, as this pulls the delicate threads. It is then desirable to twist gently in a towel and then shake to evenly distribute any water which may have settled in a ridge and cause the stocking to be streaked when dry."

"The next important factor in giving longer life to your hosiery," continues Delineator "is your method of putting stockings on. Those who were taught to put on their stockings in the old days when all children wore long undies and so acquired the habit of turning in the toes on the wrong side, and then pulling the legs are less apt to run their fingers through the leg than those who just grasp the top and pull the stocking up. One other suggestion on the purchase of hosiery is that you buy your stockings large enough. There are two reasons why it is desirable to do so, the first being that of comfort and the second, economy. Foot weariness is just as apt to be caused by small stockings as small shoes, and holes in toe and heel are much more likely to appear in short ones."

A woman who wears a 1 to 2 shoe should wear a size 8 stocking; 2 1-2 to 3 requires 8 1-2; 3 1-2 to 4 1-2 needs 9; 4 1-2 to 5 1-2 needs 9 1-2, while 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 needs 10.

STRINGER FIVE VICTORIOUS IN CAGE CONTEST

The Stringer Smoke House gang proved its superiority over the McRackens' outfit at the Junior High School gymnasium last night by scoring a 30 to 13 victory over the Clothiers.

In the first game of the evening the Girls' Y. L. I. team of Richmond walked all over the American Trust company's team of San Francisco, 24 to 3.

The Oakland Y. M. I. outfit took a close game from the Ben Malik team in the second game of the night. The final score was 22 to 17.

By the looks of last night's game the Stringer Smoke Shop will go down through the season without losing a game, unless something unforeseen happens to the team. Paul Hunter is hoping that all is well.

A fast passing game, good floor work and superior basket-shooting helped the Smoke House gang to a victory. In the first quarter they scored ten points to the Clothiers' 5. In the second quarter they scored eight more points and the Clothiers scored the same number. In the third quarter six points were scored by the Smoke House while five were scored by the Clothiers—their last scores of the game. Six more points were scored by the winners in the last quarter.

Dyer and Gillian tied for high point men with ten points and Barbieri was second with four points. Theiste was high man for the losers with five points while Bowman came through with four points.

The Malik-Y. M. I. teams played a close game until the last quarter when the Oakland team pried up a lead. The game was marred by unnecessary roughness.

Bertone was high man for the locals with seven points while Chatterton was second with five points. Cruse, Oakland forward, was high point man with ten points.

Cecilia Desmond and Helen Maloney shot the baskets for the local girls. Helen got nine goals while Cecilia came through with four goals.

These were some of the best games of the year and a record crowd attended.

FAIR OR FOUL

Following the officials assurance of President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants that Rogers Hornsby was trader to the Boston Braves "to avoid any future conflicts in the management of the club," comes the information from an unofficial, but thoroughly reliable source that Hornsby was traded over John McGraw's head.

"McGraw has nothing to do with it," was my information's terse addenda to the great Hornsby mystery, which leaves no other inference but that President Stoneham conceived and completed the transaction himself.

If this is the case, why Stoneham should have traded Hornsby without McGraw's consent, is a problem second in interest only to the still burning question of why Hornsby was traded at all. Rumors are to the effect that the cause behind it was to be found in the "internal dissension" which has stirred the Giant organization for some time past; that it was a further gesture of hostility between McGraw and Stoneham and a further indication on the part of President Stoneham that he intended taking no back seat in the organization which he controls.

Certainly the official statement of the Giant's president Wednesday wasn't convincing for all of McGraw's conversations about Hornsby he had never expressed anything but the greatest admiration for the league's best second baseman.

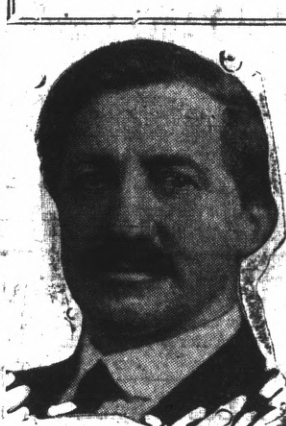

McGraw LIKES RAJAHA His constant assertions that Hornsby was one of the greatest players who ever played the game and his statement in St. Louis last summer that he would be glad to see Hornsby take over the management of the Giants upon his own retirement, wouldn't indicate that McGraw felt Hornsby was interfering with the management of the club.

BERKELEY, Jan. 16.—California's 1928 football game will be played upon a dry field no matter how much it rains. DR. FREDERICK A. COOK, who almost persuaded the world that he discovered the north pole, and who is serving a fourteen-year term at Leavenworth prison for using the mails to defraud, will not be eligible for parole as soon as he expected, according to a decision handed down by the Supreme Court.

The field covering is of rubberized canvas and costs in the neighborhood of $7,000.

The value of the "field umbrella" was clearly demonstrated by the Quaker contest which was played on a field which provided firm footing in spite of the heavy rain of the weeks preceding.

The canvas will be purchased soon and transported to the Memorial Stadium before the opening of the 1928 season.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

NO SPORT CAN MATCH A BASEBALL SQUAWK

If Flo Ziegfeld asked for waivers on Jack Donohue, Dan Healy and Eddie Cantor and Dillingham grabbed them, I doubt if the musical comedy fans would shriek murder.

And when Pete Reilly sold Jack Delaney down the river to Uncle Joe Jacobs, the fight fans didn't squawk to the blue heavens above to witness gross injustice.

And if the Three-Star barber shop fires Giuseppe, your favorite barber, YOU don't stop going there. Instead you submit to Angelo's razor and clippers.

A once-over Angelo, you tell the tonsorial understudy. "And don't put the machine on the sides."

What I am getting at is that baseball fans seems to be affected by some strange malady.

They are still ranting and ranting and pulling out their hair over the trade which sent Rogers Hornsby to the Boston Braves. In particular, the New York fans are ranting and ranting and pulling out handfuls of hair.

New York fans you immediately assume, must be old friends of Rogers Hornsby to feel so badly over the trade which sent him to Boston. They must be OLD friends for certainly, casual acquaintances would not feel so badly.

And then you discover that Rogers Hornsby, who has aroused all of this commotion among New York fans, has played with the New York Giants exactly ONE YEAR.

Whereupon you understand the actions of the frenzied James M. Kahn and the hysterical Kenneth D. Smith, who write baseball. They have been bitten by the baseball bug, and are beyond the pale. They, too, feel that a Congressional investigation should be conducted into the trade which sent Hornsby to Boston.

The musical comedy fans and the bike race fans and the fight fans may be rabid, but for pure rabidity I'll take the baseball fan. No wonder they call baseball the national game. Surely, no other sport can arouse the nation to such a pitch of enthusiasm or resentment or what have you.

THE RACE TRACK CAN'T MATCH THEM

I asked Michael W. Casale, the race track, scrivener, if his race track associates took their sport as seriously as baseball fans take theirs. "They take it as a close bet," said Mr. Casale.

However, pressed for details, Mr. Casale was forced to admit that the race track fans rarely become steamed up to the extent where they write letters to the newspapers panning Mars Cassidy.

On no occasion have race track fans publicly asked for the scalp of Sam Hildreth. When Sam Hildreth bought Man o'War as a yearling from the late August Belmont, no turf fan charged that it was evidence of "syndicate" breeding.

When the Kentucky Jockey Club barred Jockeys Stutts, Mergler and Jimmie Wallace for life, the race track fans did not raise even a fraction of the howl which accompanied the banishment of Jimmie O'Connell, the Giant ball player.

No, indeed, the baseball fan is in a class by himself. EVEN PLAYELLOW DIDN'T AROUSE THEM

The race track crowd expresses its indignation in more subtle fashion. Recall the time the Quincy Stable sold Playellow to Rancocas for $100,000? After the sale it developed that Playellow was a wind-sucker. He, as I understand it, had failed to have his tonsils removed when he was a colt, and in consequence, he couldn't run a lick. His breathing sounded like an Erie locomotive going up hill.

Rancocas, upon learning that the Quincy "bargin" had a quins sore throat, claimed it had been gyped. In court, the Rancocas Stable succeeded in getting its indignation in subtle fashion.

The Quincy Stable expressed its indignation in subtle fashion. They named one of their horses Poor Sport and sent him out of the tracks of the country as a jibe at the Rancocas connections.

Poor Sport is still running as a plater and Playellow is still a wind-sucker.

BASEBALL FANS CAN'T SEE THE JOKE

In fact, the race track crowd thought that it was a great joke that Sam Hildreth, a veteran trainer, had been unable to sport Playellow for a wind-sucker when he paid out $100,000 for him.

Hildreth never realized that he had been handed a white elephant until the first time the Man o' War relative started. Playellow was 1 to 8 in its first start under the Hildreth banner.

When the field turned into the stretch, Playellow could be seen plowing along behind. Even above the roar of the crowd, you could hear Playellow breathing. Each breath called for a gurgie and a snort.

Hildreth, sitting in his regular clubhouse box, almost fell over the railing.

Yet baseball fans of Philadelphia became violent in their passions a year ago when Chicago sent Pitcher Tony Kaufman to the Phils in the trade for Pitcher Carlson Kaufman arrived with a lame arm and couldn't pitch.

The race track fans only thought it a very funny joke when a wind-sucker was hoisted on Hildreth for $100,000.

Yes sirree there's no matching a baseball fan.

FAMOUS NAMES HANDICAP HORSES, APPARENTLY

Hildreth had another devastating experience with Grange. Grange was 1 to 8 shot and flopped.

Few horses named after famous personages have ever amounted to much. Grange was named after Red Grange.

Sarazen, named by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt after Gene Sarazen, the golfer, was about the best of these. This great gelding developed too much temperament later in his career and had to be retired.

Johnny Madden named one of his yearlings after Damon Runyon, the writer. I believe that Damon Runyon, the horse, won only one race and this, they tell me, was strictly in the bag.

FIGHT CARD AT EL CERRITO IS BANG-UP SHOW

El Cerrito's fight season will be officially opened next Friday evening, January 20 when Joe Rossi will put on what is considered by fight fans as the most promising card of the season at the El Cerrito Athletic Club. A record house should be in attendance to see.

Pete Myers of San Francisco, and Tony Azevedo of the Newman, at 150 pounds, top the first fight card. Thirty rounds of boxing round out the card.

Myers won a decision over Bob Corbett, beat Judge Dampier, Evans and many other fast and clever middleweights.

Azevedo fought a great fight with "Lefty" Cooper of San Francisco last week and beat Dooler, O'Leary and other fast fighters.

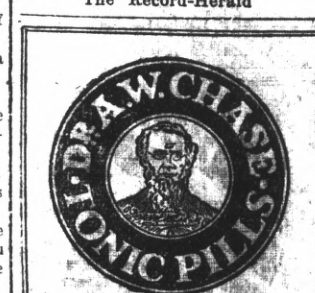

In the semi-windup Joe Limas of El Cerrito and Mickey Gibbons of Vallejo at 140 pounds will tangle while the other bouts are as follows:

George Matty, of San Francisco, and Wolf Emmitt, 150 pounds; Manuel Vasquez of Berkeley, and Charley Actis of Richmond, 140 pounds; Ad Remy of San Francisco, and Joe Vierra of Oakland; 122 pounds and Pete Marshall of El Cerrito and Bobby Jacques of San Francisco, at 152 pounds.

CLAUDE CLARK ON TELEPHONE USERS BOARD

With Claude Clark, well known Richmond rearer and horse club leader, as a member of the board, the Telephone Users Protective Association was formed yesterday in Oakland to resist in the telephone rate fight in Richmond and the other East Bay cities.

W. Herbert Graham, well known Oakland civic leader, was elected president of the Association. Besides Graham and Clark, the directors include Mrs. Cora H. Harding, representing the Berkeley housewives; Ralph S. Hawley, city engineer of Emeryville, and secretary of the Emeryville Industrial Association; W. J. Cannon, Justice of the Peace of San Leandro, and two members of the Oakland Merchants' Exchange, Carlton Osgood and G. A. Nesbit.

The Association is the outgrowth of a movement started when Harry G. Williams, president of the Merchants' Exchange named Graham as chairman of a committee to study the situation and see whether there was need for a new organization to assist in analyzing the facts in the rate case. Graham called a mass meeting of improvement club leaders and others, and it was unanimously voted to create the Telephone Users Protective Association.

According to Graham, the association will carry on research in the interests of all classes of telephone users, with the object of being able to present new and valuable data when the case comes before the Railroad Commission for a hearing. He said he anticipates a long hard fight to prevent the company from securing the large increases which it asks.

The work of the Association will take in the entire East Bay territory from Richmond to San Leandro.

City Council Salaries Are Next Problem in El Cerrito

It is likely that the city council election in April in El Cerrito will be placed on the ballot, the question as to whether the members of the City Council shall receive salaries or not.

The matter came up at the annual meeting of the trustees last evening when trustee Phil A. Lee suggested that an ordinance be adopted fixing the salaries of the elected officials.

In this connection trustee Chas. W. Zimmerman voiced the opinion that salaries for councilmen should also be included but Lee's idea was that the suggestion of salaries for the councilmen should come from the citizens rather than from the councilmen.

No action was taken on the proposals but the matter was referred to City Attorney Wilbur S. Pierce to look into the law and report back next Monday night.

An invitation of the El Cerrito Volunteer Fire Department to the council to attend their social and dance to be given January 28 at the City Hall was accepted.

A permit was granted the Italian Catholic Federation to hold a dance at the Co-operative Hall, January 28.

City Treasurer Cora J. M. Simpson reported balances on hand January 1 in the following funds, Bond Redemption Fund $6,383.04, Motor Vehicle Violation Fund $11,318.50 and General Fund of $31,070.09.

City Clerk Alice Morris reported to the council that the owner of the 1000 frontage adjacent to the City Hall would sell his property for $3,000.

The council informed Mrs. Morris to have the owner appear before the council if his property was for sale as they might consider purchasing it.

Sponsor System Of Naming Candidates To Be Tried

While there are but few county officials to be elected this year and no State officers excepting Senators and Assemblymen, 1928 will nevertheless be an important year politically in California, the chief importance next of course to the election of a President being the first trial of the "sponsor system" of naming candidates seeking party or non-political office nominations.

There are to be nominated and elected this year, so far as Contra Costa county is concerned: President of the United States, United States Senator (Hiram Johnson, incumbent), Representative in Congress (Charles F. Curry, incumbent), State Senator (W. R. Sharkey, incumbent), a Assemblyman (R. P. Easley, incumbent), Supervisor Dist. No. 2, (Oscar Olsson, incumbent), Supervisor Dist. No. 4, (W. J. Buchanan, incumbent), Supervisor Dist. No. 5, (R. J. Trembath, incumbent).

In the past and ever since the old system of nominating candidates for all offices at county or state conventions of the several political parties was discarded in favor of the direct primary system it has been necessary for aspirants for the nomination to obtain signatures of qualified electors to their petitions for a place on the ballot, the number of these signatures being specified as a fixed percentage of votes polled at the last election for governor. In township and district offices the number of signatures required was small, little difficulty was found in obtaining those for county offices but several thousand were needed for those who sought State positions.

This has now all been changed. The former plan has been relegated to the discard with one sweep of the pen and the "Sponsor System" put measure of Gov. C. C. Young and said to be highly favored by the judges of the State courts has taken its place.

The sponsor system means nothing to the rank and file of the electorate but those who aspire to office and their friends who will actively promote their candidacy will be interested in watching the manner of the new plan's workings.

Every person seeking any office shall file with the proper official not less than 40 nor more than 90 days before the August 1928 primary election a "declaration of candidacy" or such declaration shall be filed by his sponsors. The aspirant for office shall set forth in his declaration his name, address, occupation, business address, name of his employer, length of residence in California, and his business occupation for the preceding three years, as well as his address for the preceding five years, his party affiliation, office which he seeks, name of office then held and what public offices, if any, he has held in the past and a statement, not to exceed 50 words in length detailing "what he considers to be his special fitness, training or experience in the line of work which he will be called upon to perform in case of his election."

Or, friends of any person designated his "sponsors" may urge his nomination and election by the filing of "declarations of candidacy" by sponsors. In other words "draft" his into the running by asking that the individual named be selected, in which event the candidate who is drafted into the candidacy so declared attests forth substantially the same facts required of him if he seeks office of his own motion.

But here comes the real "meat in the cocoon" the motive behind the whole scheme which is to make it easier and less expensive for candidates to aspire to the nomination. Instead of being forced to obtain thousands of signatures to their nomination papers and hire men and women to circulate the petitions for signatures, the candidates need obtain only a mere handful of signatures as follows:

All State offices: Not less than 65 nor more than 100 sponsors. Congressmen, members of the Board of Equalization: Not less than 40 nor more than 60 sponsors.

State Senators, Assemblymen and County Officers: Not less than 20 nor more than 30 sponsors.

The sponsor petitions must be signed and filed with the County Clerk at least 65 days prior to the August primary election.

Candidates for all offices except State Senator and Assemblyman and county offices.

Carrillo Herrera Case Postponed

Letters said to have been written between Marciel Carrillo and Mrs. M. Herrera previous to the alleged attack of Carrillo on Mrs. Herrera, January 7, may throw a different light on the case, according to Carrillo's Attorney Will S. Roberson.

Friends of Carrillo are endeavoring to raise $500 bail to free the man who is now being held at the city jail. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Herrera appeared in court Monday, as Mrs. Herrera is recovering at the county hospital and Mr. Herrera is employed on a Santa Fe section gang.

Joseph Barsanti, 324 Barrett avenue, is reported to be the first person to enter the house after the alleged attack. He stated that Mrs. Herrera explained the upset condition of the house due to a row she had just had with her husband.

A definite date cannot be set for the hearing until Mrs. Herrera is able to appear in court.

E. W. Cannon, architect, is now busy preparing "working drawings" and it is planned to start construction within ninety days.

The building is to be of structural steel, class A, and second to none of the Bay Cities hospitals.

With the announcement that Contra Costa Board of Supervisors had ordered the county hospital in Martinez barred to pay patients, private operative cases and all but the gravest emergency cases in order to prevent overcrowding of the institution to the detriment of the indigent sick and injured for whom the public institution was primarily intended, the project to build a private hospital in Richmond was revived and announcement was made today that construction of Hospital Richmond would be started within the next 90 days.

The new hospital, planned to cost $367,000 is to be erected by a company capitalized for $500,000 and shares in which are to be sold on a basis of three shares of preferred and one share of common stock to cost $150 per unit. The $367,000 issue must be wholly subscribed and paid up by March 15, 1928 to comply with the stock permit issued on September 6 of last year.
